THE GOVERNMENT OF GALVESTON.

Threat of the Mexicans to Burn Cotton at Matamoras.

The steamship Morning Star, Capt. J. M. Gordon, arrived at this port last evening from New-Orleans and Havana, having left the former port on Oct. 17.

The steamships Kansas, Star and Cecile were at Havana when the Morning Star left.

Down from Vermilionville, headquarters Nineteenth and Thirteenth Army Corps, we up to 10 P. M. on the 8th, there has been skirmishing nearly every day for a week, without casualties on our side. To-day we had six wounded, the enemy's loss about the same. The enemy's force in this vicinity is estimated at 6,000, and it is understood that Gen. Moore's 4th Texans command them.

Quite extensive rebel salt works in the vicinity of Point Clear in the Mississippi Sound, have been destroyed by detachments of sailors from the Steamer Commodore and yacht Corypheus, and soldiers from the garrison at Fort Pike.

Brig.-Gen. L. F. Hamilton has arrived in New-Orleans, on his way to assume the military government of Texas. At the request of many prominent citizens, the General has consented to address a grand mass meeting on the present aspect of political affairs.

He proposes immediately to join the expedition now advancing for the recovery of Texas.

Four splendid side wheelers, now lying at this port, are soon to be offered for sale, for the benefit of Government or private individuals. They are needed for war purposes or the reviving trade upon the Mississippi.

Col. Chas. C. Dwinel, One Hundred and Sixteenth New-York, is relieved from duty as Judge of the Provost Court, and ordered to join his regiment. Lt. A. Arcoll, Esq., formerly Judge-Advocate, is appointed to the Provost Court.

A beautiful stand of colors was presented on the 15th inst. to the First Louisiana Volunteers, by the officers and men of the Fourth District Police, of New-Orleans. The occasion was one of great interest. Hon. T. J. Durant made the presentation speech in behalf of the Police, to which Hon. B. R. Duncan, Acting Mayor of the City, responded in behalf of the regiment, which is at present in the field.

Gen. Banks has modified his order for the registration of loyal voters in such a manner that all loyal citizens may be registered in return upon taking the oath of allegiance to the United States, or making a declaration that such oath is taken voluntarily, and for the purpose of establishing a Government loyal to the United States.

By the arrival we have files of New-Orleans journals to the 17th inst. We make the following extracts:

NEWS FROM BAYOU TECHE.

Special correspondence of the New-Orleans Era.

NEW-YORK, BAYOU TECHE, SUNDAY, Oct. 11.

The advance to the city has crossed the Bayou Vermilion, and our cavalry had a skirmish with the enemy, two hundred strong, with two pieces of artillery. Maj. Cowan, of Gen. Weitzel's staff, and half-a-dozen men were wounded. The enemy has been driven in every point. Supplies for the Teche have been delayed by the breaking of bridges.

FROM NEW-ORLEANS.

Special Correspondence of the New-Orleans Era.

NEW-ORLEANS, SUNDAY, Oct. 11.

The old flag again floats over the waters of Bayou Teche, near Vermilion, by the capture of Brown, now lying opposite New-Orleans. The enemy had fired their entire baggage and commissary stores, piles of cotton, to cover their retreat, which they hurriedly commenced, and Gen. W. B. Emory, leading the advanced division of New-Orleans with Confederate powder secured in a rebel cannon taken from the greatest Gunner, Mr. Gen. Dana, of course, and indefatigable overtaken and in the skirmish, consisting of Col. Green's Illinois Regiment, he received credit of the very serious loss. The remarkable feature of the very young colored regiment have proved themselves soldiers, and it is a most important item of our military service, in the work of removing the barriers, they are here, with chivalrous gallantry, fortified the enemy, which has been skillfully fulfilled by their officers in accomplishing the end of the Gen. C. must say a word about the attention of Gen. Emory, who, at present, is the confident that the very contempt of pure courage with the commencement of the gallant and learned Col. Cowan of the One Hundred and Twenty-eighth New-York regiment. She was found concealed in much the same manner, with some of her machinery taken out to remove her engines. Her crew had fled, leaving the boat in charge of the Gunner, who was found to discover the hiding places of the lo ni pyrene. Gen. Emory, who was particularly pleasing, Gen. Dana, Gen. Emory, Gen. Correspondence of the New-York Times.

HAVANA, Friday, Oct. 23, 1863.

Since my last communication, both the French Minister, M. [illegible], and the [illegible] Minister to the West India Isle, have arrived from Vera Cruz, the forest at Boulogne, de Cuba are the latter of this port. Neither of them, however, [illegible] any news of much importance from Mexico. There is reason to remark, [illegible] though this [illegible] that a Prince Maximilian expedition was to leave the Bay Isle Point on the commencement of this month, great preparations in the way of equipment having been made for that purpose. [illegible]

Gen. Forey did not come a passenger in the French steamer, as it was stated some time ago in the papers of Havana de Cuba that he might probably do. At the time that vessel received from Vera Cruz, Gen. Forey had not left, but would probably have for Tampico in the French man-of-war-the Forbin, leaving, it is said, at Havana and New York on his voyage.

A grand review of the garrison in Mexico lately took place, when the Commander-in-Chief decorated Gen. Bazaine, with the grand cross of the Legion of Honor, and gave other decorations to those officers of the army to whom they have been granted by the Emperor Napoleon in reward for their services.

Gens. Forey and Bazaine afterward reviewed from the Palace the brilliant corps composing the garrison who passed in file before them.

As well as Marshal Forey, the Imperial Commissioner, M. Boban, has been recalled. The inauguration of the "New Mexican National Independence" was celebrated on the 17th ult. at Vera Cruz with rockets, illuminations, balls, bands of music and other Fourth of July amusements. According to the Cimerin of Vera Cruz, of the 17th ult., Almonte had been sick, but not dangerously so, so he was able to continue his official duties of the regency. According to the Estafeta, of Mexico City, the number of State [illegible] had agreed to the new form of government was five. Letters received at Vera Cruz from the Capital say that the military preparations for beginning the campaign in the interior at the commencement of October would be terminated at the end of September. A contract, it was said, had been made for the construction of a part of the railroad from Soledad to Chiquihuite.

The Mexican papers received here come from both the capitals that now claim to be the seat of Government. Those from Mexico City are up to the 27th ult., and those from San Luis Potosi to the 20th ult. In both cities the well-known Mexican monthly review, called El Heraldo, continues to be published, but each writes in a completely opposite sense, so that it is impossible for an impartial person to distinguish the truth from falsehood. In one thing, however, the papers on both sides agree, namely, that during the last month there has not occurred anything new of importance, and that the number of guerrillas and banditti who infest the country is very large.

An important ministerial change took place lately, it is said, at San Luis Potosi, in virtue of which Gen. Doblado took charge of the Government. It however broke down in a few days—Doblado giving up his office and returning to his State of Guanajuato. The papers of Mexico City attach great importance to this circumstance, supposing that Doblado had accepted of Juarez a radical change of politics and the banishment of Zaroo, who has the greatest influence, it is said, over the mind of the President. They also maintain that Doblado disagreed entirely with the authorities at San Luis Potosi, and that he had withdrawn to Guanajuato, resolved to keep himself independent. On the other hand, the papers of San Luis Potosi assert that the affair was of no importance, nor was the discussion anywise serious—the proof of which being that the individuals whom Doblado selected as his partners in office, still form a part of the Ministry.

A political review published at San Luis Potosi, dated the 2d ult., and which has been received here, gives the following account of the ministerial changes there alluded to:

"A change of cabinet has been the most important event that has lately happened. Those who composed the former ministry being desirous that their remaining in power should not serve as an obstacle to unanimity in the union in the country, all the elements that existed, whether single or concentrated, presented their resignation, which was accepted. Gen. Doblado was then offered the place of Secretary of Foreign Relations, Justice, Ecclesiastical Affairs, Public Instruction and Commerce, for the Secretaryships of War and Marine and for the Treasury. Given that Doblado's motives were separated from the union, which he desired, we were frustrated by Senor Doblado having given an excuse from a private matter in his office. The Ministry for this reason was modified. Senor Lerdo, filling the [illegible] of Foreign Affairs, the Ministries of War from Mariscal and Senores Romero and Cosorrosa continuing in their offices of Secretaries of Treasury and of War."

The Mexican papers received here from both the capitals state that all is in the most perfect tranquillity. Regarding the intention of the Administration in the matter of the French war, they state that it will be in the different provinces of the Mexican Republic, the good fate of circumstances permit, and that with respect to the Army of its duties it will be necessary to have the National Guards [illegible] to the end that which the Republic is engaged, trying that nothing shall be omitted which is all necessary to save the national independence. In the conclusion of the [illegible] the author concludes, in the defenders of the country's nationality, faith in the final success of hostilities.

The Heraldo of Mexico City, says that the relay posts being near its construction, the campaign of the interior will be shortly begun, which it has been found necessary to enter in order not to endanger the health of the troops and the success of the operations. The Heraldo of San Luis, on its side, says that Gen. Negrete, being well fortified in Huachinango, and driven back the party he had attacked him, [illegible] the [illegible] loss.

Juarez, notwithstanding all adversity, still [illegible] at San Luis Potosi, although reports had been spread by his opponents that he was about to retire, according to one account, to Durango, and according to another to Monterey. To the former place he could not go, as the same parties who spread the report, for they state that it was said in San Luis itself that Durango had risen up in favor of the monarchy and that Tabasco, who is Governor of the State in which Mazatlan is situated, is not sufficiently obedient to the Government of Juarez. According to the Sentinel, the town of Durango was twice attacked in a week by a force of 400 Mexicans belonging to the Intervention. They were repulsed, but, it is said, that the [illegible] in the Intervention [illegible] in Durango, Chihuahua and Nuevo Leon a very determined resistance in favor of the new order of things.

In San Luis great excitement prevails in the divided capital, and hence the people a decisive [illegible] which took place on the 2d ult. [illegible] of [illegible] being begun the operations. The excitement has been the result of the political objects they call [illegible] the defenders of the country's nationality, faith in the final success of hostilities.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

Richmond papers of the 21st inst. admit the defeat of Gen. LEE at Bristoe Station by Gen. WARREN, and say that their loss was about one thousand in killed and wounded. Rebel Gens. COOX, PERRY and KIRKLAND were among their wounded. Lieut.-Gen. D. H. HILL has been removed from his command in the rebel Army of the Tennessee. Gen. POLK charges him with the cause of his failure to carry out BRAGG's orders in the battle of Chickamauga.

The steamship Morning Star arrived last evening from New-Orleans, bringing dates from that city to the 17th instant. The journals contain very little news of army movements, but we learn that the advance of our forces had crossed the Vermilion River, and for a week prior to the 16th instant there had been considerable skirmishing, without many casualties on either side. In the parishes of Pleaquemine and Lafourche, planters were beginning to grind the sugar-cane, but in consequence of the disturbed condition of the labor market, the crop did not promise to be large. We find in the New-Orleans Era an interesting budget of news from Texas. Our squadron on the coast have had brisk employment in watching blockade-runners, and were successful in two or three instances in destroying and capturing vessels engaged in the contraband traffic. It is the intention of the Mexican Government to burn all the cotton at Matamoras, rather than permit it to fall into the hands of the French.

Several entire regiments in the Army of the Potomac have signified their intention to the Government to re-enlist for the war. These are mostly old veteran "war horses" who enlisted in the Spring of 1861, and whose terms of service will expire in the coming Spring. Having been in at the first of the war, they are determined to stay and see the thing finished.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Lexington (Ky.) Union gives an account of the shooting of Dr. BENTON, at Marshall, Saline County, on the 5th inst. He was tried by a Drum Head Court-martial on the charge of being engaged in various robberies and depredations perpetrated in that region since the rebellion broke out, and in also supposed to have been at the sacking of Lawrence. He was a man of education, a good physician, and about thirty years old. He was quite neatly dressed in a suit of black cloth. One of the soldiers, a few moments before he was shot, knelt in prayer with the doomed man; he was then ordered to take his coat off, his arms pinioned behind, and seated on his coffin. Sixteen men fired, killing him instantly.

The New-Bedford (Mass.) Standard says that a letter has been received in that city from an officer in Admiral DAHLGREN's fleet, stating that the grand attack on Charleston will not be made until Sherman comes up to Charleston. By that time the fleet will be fortified by several ironclads.

The following is an extract from a letter written by a select prisoner at Camp Douglas, Chicago, to his friends in the South: "The writer is an Alabamian: 'When in the South, from different accounts and reports I had read and heard, I was inclined to believe that the great Peace party of the North was confined to work a great reaction in coming events, and as the principal means of ending the war. Also, that a great majority of the army were in favor of peace—a cessation of hostilities, and in favor of the South. But on my journey thus far, I have conversed with many—especially upon these points. It surprised me not a little. I assure you it was the unfavorable opinion among them all, and to find, upon inquiry, that they were determined to fight until the last. I have no hope now—not even for the cessation of the war, until one side or the other acknowledge themselves conquered. The question is, 'who is to be the victor?'"

The Louisville Journal of Thursday last says: "We are able to state on unexceptionable authority, entirely trustworthy, that the Government will not authorize the enlistment of negroes in Kentucky. We make this statement, and we are sure every patriot among us will receive it, without qualified pleasure or relief."

We have some additional news from Mexico of great interest. Gen. FOREY, before his departure from the City of Mexico, issued some high handed orders against the unknown assassins of a French Zouave, threatening to burn down the town of Tlaxpala, where the man was murdered, if the act was not otherwise explained. The new campaign against JUAREZ was about to begin, with small chances of success on the part of the French. We may now look for exciting news from Mexico.

A dispatch from Pittsburgh says that the Ohio River is rising. There is also a reported rise in the Monongahela at Brownsville, and there has been a freshet in the Youghiogheny, one of the tributaries. This looks encouraging for a coalboat stage.

The Virginia House of Delegates has passed a bill for a currency exchange in gold and bank-notes. In addition to convert all the free property of the State (Virginia) invested in slaves and for years, to work in the mines and manufactories, and inflict the same body, [illegible] passed in Richmond on Thursday last to defer action whether the Legislature shall pass a bill repudiating the debts of citizens of other sovereignty.

JOHN A. LAWRANCE, the last young man of fashion who recently fitted out the Alabama, was on Friday unable to find purchasers, among all who pretend to have shown themselves to be as brave as that fellow-soldiers in every respect, and have followed the example while under fire.

A party of forty from Detroit says: "A Negro was recently cast down by the roadside in Ohio, left for dead, for quoting an enemy in his mouth to cause death to his brother."

Dr. D. W. WHITING, of Norfolk, the murderer of Lieut. SUTHERLAND, was executed on Friday last.

Hundreds were in store demand on Saturday, at advanced prices. A memorial, therefore was documented in Providence, Hope, Leather, Oils, Goods and Tallow, at generally unchanged quotations. Cotton, Whiskey, Groceries, Metals and Naval Stores were quiet. Wool was in active request. Rates were nominally higher. The demand for all classes is good.

The Destiny of Republics—The Opposition Party.

The Opposition party and the Peace party, if not one and the same, have a very suspicious resemblance to each other. Let any one recall the events of the first three months of 1861. The Southern States, pitted and disgusted, claiming to have become a separate nation; loyal men at the North astounded and alarmed, paralyzed by the enormity of the situation; our political fabric seemingly crumbling into ruins. A chasm of mere money on every hand in the most surprised and affrighted by the action of their Southern brethren." They asserted the idea of attempting to "coerce sovereign States." "The calamity" would never subsist to the indignity of coming under the "Black Republican" Government. It was an outrage, and if blood was shed in such a cause it would be on the Office of the North and not South; and more and insurrections would devastate all till we should implore "our Southern brethren" to come and give us the security of a strong Government.

Who were the men who said all this in New-York in the Winter of 1861—to what party do these men belong now?

After the great opening in April, 1861, these malcontents hid themselves for a time from public sight, and lurked in political holes, watching and waiting for an opportunity to disarm the nation. Here and there they emerged, and held public meetings as "Peace meetings." They busied themselves in fabricating or magnifying bad news, in misrepresenting all public acts, and maligning every one who attempted to do his duty. They went about hawking tales of wrong, incompetency and disaster, and predicting National insolvency, defeat and ruin. They denounced the President with epithets which exhausted the whole vocabulary of vituperation. They labored to bedevil the currency. They smuggled arms and goods to the rebels, and betrayed our plans and preparations. They did their utmost to make vain all our efforts against the dismemberment of our country; and when we failed they taunted and jeered, and cried "You cannot conquer the South; JEFFERSON DAVIS is a statesman, and ABE LINCOLN a baboon."

The stubborn spirit of the nation rose with the increasing difficulties of this great struggle, but the malignity of these internal enemies seemed also to gain activity and venom. They seized upon the machinery of liberty and wielded it to overthrow the whole structure of our Government; they made our bill of rights, our free speech and free press and habeas corpus instruments of sedition and revolution, thus turning the artillery of our citadel against its own garrison. They insisted upon the right to keep on foot a strictly party organization for the avowed purpose of opposition. The Government was contending against a gigantic rebellion, and the whole continent was convulsed with this mighty struggle; our open enemies were strong enough to task all our powers, and yet these domestic foes refused even to be silent or neutral. They kept barking and snapping at the heels of Government, and compelled it to reserve some portion of its attention and strength to resist them and beat off their attacks.

These factionists took pains, on all occasions, to call themselves the Democratic party. It was a libel upon the fame of that party. All its real leaders, all its true men, stood under the national standard, and refused to know any party or have any platform but the suppression of this rebellion. They were unconditional Union men.

During the early part of the present year the Northern enemies of the Government grew bold and aggressive in their opposition. They misrepresented and denounced every measure and began to threaten violence. They claimed to have obtained control of the Executive power of New-York and to have a Governor who would, if necessary, resist the authority of the National Government. They proclaimed the supremacy of State Rights. They thought that their hour of triumph had come, and that they might throw off disguise and defy the Government. So they came together in a great assembly. One of their organs spoke of it as follows: "To say that it was the largest Convention ever held in this or any other country would not be affording even a faint idea of its overwhelming immensity."

It was the Opposition party, acting as a great deliberative body, and announcing to the world in the most formal and authoritative manner its principles and purposes.

It adopted as its platform three propositions, which were as follows:

First—The sovereignty of the States.

Second—The General Government cannot coerce States by military power.

Third—Proclaim for peace.

They pledged themselves to these doctrines, and boasted that they would carry the State this Fall by a majority of forty thousand.

They have made their nominations, and is there a man of common understanding who has any doubt that this party is of treasonable antecedents? Take note of the persons who figured at that Convention, and see their tickets. They now call themselves "Democrats." They affirm that they are the Opposition party. Are they in favor of sustaining the Government in a vigorous prosecution of the war? Are they in favor even of sustaining the local laws which protect our persons and property?

Take, for instance, the man whom they have nominated for Judge of the Superior Court. Is this JOHN MCCUNN the man who figured so largely at "The Great Peace Convention" that he spoke from two different stands? They could not have been ignorant of his opinions, for they cheered their approval of such a speech as this:

"The slavish doctrine of obedience to this Administration has passed away. The South is our great basis of power and wealth, and if she falls, she will fall like the strong man of old, carrying with her the pillars of our institutions. Let the Administration take warning by the demonstration now made, and hasten to hand over the Government to the friends of the South, who are willing to give them their rights, and who are willing to give them their rights, or we will take them."

Is this the same JOHN MCCUNN who boldly declared during the riots in destroying the military operations; who called the gangs of thieves and murderers the "incensed people," "the outraged laboring classes," and who told the Police, when they stood between these villains and "the brown-stone fronts," to go away, and not make a disturbance?

When this person ventured himself upon the platform at the Peace Convention, what was the meaning of the shouts, "McCunn and the Union corpse," if they had, or indications of the role he was to play in the intended state?

He redeemed his pledges, and issued a shower of writs to open the prison, when in point of law he had no more authority to issue such mandates than to give letters-of-marque to the sea-robbers upon the Alabama. For such a man as this the opposition have set aside Judge DOWNING, a life-long Democrat, and one who has added honor to a Court which was once the pride of the City.

Citizens of New-York, take care of yourselves. Resist this attempt of the mob to seize upon the Judiciary. It is infinitely more dangerous than any street assault. It will give them the power which they usurped last July. The power to open all our prisons and let loose upon us all the ruffians of the world.

Can you name a single prominent man in the "Peace Convention," who is not now one of the opposition party? What is this opposition party if it is not the same body who assembled in June and called themselves "The Great Peace Convention," and whose works in July have made our faces tingle with shame?

England's Great Guns.

The English Press, for the past few months, has been over-lavish of hints and groans, bearing upon the non-success of certain artillery and projectile experiments, the initiation of which, two or more years ago, with the most fearful boasting, was calculated to make all the world shake in its shoes at the threatened tripling and quadrupling of John Bull's shooting ability. Heretofore they have given way only to hints and groans, but now the Birmingham Morning News, of Oct. 5—a paper of high authority upon all matters of manufacture or mechanics—comes out flat-footed, and declares all the Armstrong gun failures, giving data for its opinions, and pointing with a steady finger at each monster piece of ordnance, recites in unmistakable words the history of its birth, life and death—not even hesitating to declare the whole Armstrong contract a job, and a gross imposition upon the British people.

Beginning with the 7-inch bore, for 110-pounders, it goes on, up to the 13½-inch bore for 600-pounders, and cites a chapter of experiments, each paragraph ending with a burst or injured gun, until Woolwich Arsenal is nothing but a hospital for disabled ordnance. The 600-pounders, of which we have heard so much, have not yet been tried, only one of them, as it seems, being finished, and yet they are proceeding with the manufacture of projectiles for them in immense quantities, which have been declared by many of the best authorities in the kingdom totally unusable. Added to this, it makes mention of some hundreds of thousands of pounds spent in experimental projectiles, made under the direction of Sir WILLIAM ARMSTRONG, every one of which is a failure, and useless, save for the metal. In all this there is nothing at which to be astonished.

The best artilleristi and mechanics of the age, long ago predicted the failure of the Armstrong gun; and its adoption and manufacture by England in such quantities for the past few years, has been only a spasmodic attempt to do something to blind the eyes of the world, and make them believe that her great ordnance made her a dangerous foe. The simple truth is, that Sir WILLIAM ARMSTRONG invented nothing, but only sought to apply an idea that had been discarded for hundreds of years, to modern necessities. Except rifling, there has actually been nothing invented in artillery since the first casting of a gun, but the principles of DAHLGREN and HOBSON, and every application of those principles practically, and as a consequence, serviceably, or of any other principle or improvement, has been done in this country, and dates since the commencement of this rebellion. English and French guns of large calibre in this country have been an utter failure, as the rebels know to their great cost, nothing of their ordnance having stood the test but those to carry light weight of metal, and these we have already so far surpassed, that our artilleristi are agreed that they would not have foreign made guns if they could have them as a gift. We believe that with the rebels this fact has been so far authenticated that every great English gun they have brought into actual use has burst, of which the famous Blakeley at Charleston was a notable example. Just at this time both England and France are sadly behindhand in ordnance, especially naval. England has nothing now afloat better than smooth-bore 68-pounders, for she has already made confession that her rifled 100-pounders are inferior to the 68's. When some of the steamers she is now building are finished, they will have smooth-bore 300-pounders, but if the story we have just been reciting is to be believed, and as it is told by themselves, why should it not?—not much danger need be apprehended by the friends of that obtuse old lady, who once said something about ruling the waves, which in these days has a rather ridiculous sound.

The other day, in an after-dinner speech before the Middlesex Agricultural Society, that pattern "friend of the South," Mr. LUMLEY, M. P., backed up by the Lord Chief Baron, made use of the following language:

"It was said that they ought not to allow ships to be built in this country for the Southern States, but argued they to allow cotton and commodities to go out of this country to supply the Northern States? The cotton now being used in Lombard Charleston was obtained from this country, and, for aught he knew, the cotton Great deal of which so much had been said, was manufactured next but, as cotton [illegible]

Now, if all this was true, which is doubted by a [illegible] Mr. LUMLEY, after the [illegible] made, must have an further fear that the North will be successful in that same manner, or annihilated. We believe that the extent of our arms-bearing unknown to a few thousand Austrian, which we were delighted by the smuggling of English armorers, but we never were weak enough to be swindled with the idea that privilege was reserved for Mr. LUMLEY's friends of the South.

We feel for England in her stand on the embroiled question, and cannot wait see how she can be helped out of it, unless we raise the blockade long enough to let her run in a few hundred of her failures, receiving in pay Southern gold, which she can hand over to us, and we will make her a few guns that will shoot.

The Dano-German Imbroglio.

The Dano-German question is beginning to assume an aspect of gravity. Matters are evidently approaching a crisis, and if the Western Powers do not promptly interpose between the belligerents, and compel them to come to terms, the consequence may be a general European war.

The Federal Diet, which can agree on nothing else, is unanimously in favor of "execution" being carried out in Holstein, and has decided on taking military possession of that province, if, within three weeks, the Danish proclamation of the 30th of March is not cancelled. A strong force of Hanoverian and Saxon troops is to enter the Duchy, while Austria and Prussia are to furnish the reserve. Austria, indeed, appears to be taking a disgracefully prominent part in this paltry business, if we can credit a Frankfort correspondent of the Botshafter. The Government of that Power has gone so far, according to this writer, as to address a formal manifesto to the Great Powers, announcing that coercion has become indispensable, should Denmark persist in her resistance; and that it rests solely with the Cabinet of Copenhagen to avert armed intervention; adding, that Denmark, not Germany, must succumb. This is very valorous on the part of Austria, but why is all her sympathy lavished on the Teutons of Schleswig? Why is all her indignation directed against the sovereign of the little Cimbrian Kingdom? There are other non-German lands in Europe where Teutons inhabit, and other non-German sovereigns in Europe who rule over that race. Teutons more aggrieved than the Schleswigers; sovereigns less paternal than FREDERICK. NAPOLEON, for instance, has German subjects in Alsace who have neither provincial diet, nor political liberty, and who are infinitely more entitled to commiseration than their brethren of Schleswig. Now, how comes it that Austria, and the Kaiser, and the Frankfort Parliament, take so little interest in the case of these Alsacians, and never dream of remonstrating with the French Emperor in their behalf? Ah! NAPOLEON is a powerful potentate, who would not tolerate such impertinence, and so the Alsacian Teutons are left to their fate.

But "Denmark, not Germany," it seems, "must succumb." This is not quite so certain as Austria imagines. In the speech which was read at the opening of the Danish Rigsraad, the King does not evince any disposition to yield. On the contrary, he declares in it that while he is ready to comply with every requisition of the Federal Diet relative to Holstein, which is compatible with his sovereignty over that province, and with independent legislation in other parts of his kingdom, he is firmly determined to uphold his prerogatives, and to defend Denmark from every aggression. If nothing, then, save the submission of the Cabinet of Copenhagen can avert the armed intervention of the Diet, we suppose the long-threatened "executive" will come off. But is it so certain that only the submission of the Danish Cabinet can prevent it? Baron MANDERSTRÖM, the Swedish Foreign Minister, entertains a very different opinion, and has lately addressed notes to the Swedish Ambassadors at Paris and London, in order to point out how Germany may be checkmated, and Denmark shielded from attack. These notes are in fact an appeal, on the part of Sweden, to France and England, in favor of the Dane. They are the first fruits of the entente cordiale which has just sprung up between the Scandinavian Powers, and afford convincing proof of the devotion of the Stockholm Government to the cause of its neighbor. Intervention in her domestic affairs, says the Baron, cannot be tolerated by Denmark, and if Federal execution is attempted in Holstein, war becomes inevitable. There is, however, proceeds he, one very effective method of preventing said execution, and preserving peace. Let the Ministers of the Western nations lodge a joint and peremptory protest with the German Diet, against the contemplated outrage, coupled with a threat of hostilities, should their remonstrance be disregarded, and then there need be no apprehension of trouble from this source.

Notwithstanding the failure of Anglo-Gallic diplomacy in the case of Poland, the Swedish Secretary has evidently not lost faith in the Western Powers. But it is not by such milk and water as Earl RUSSELL's recent dispatch, that the Diet will be moved from its purpose. His Lordship counsels recourse to mediation, forgetting that there are some questions too delicate to be submitted to third parties, and that the Danes can no more assent to this mode of settlement, where their very existence as a nation is at stake, than we could tolerate it were the matter at issue the continuance or dissolution of the Union.

EUROPE AND AMERICA.—When in this country near forty years ago, that great and good man, LAFAYETTE, said in reply to the Mayor of St. Louis, respecting the American Union: "A Union, so essential, not only to the fate of each member of the confederacy, but also to the general fate of the whole world, that the least wound to its vitals would be felt by all the nations of the earth, and would be a calamity to the whole world." Now, if all this was true, which is doubted by a [illegible] Mr. LUMLEY, after the [illegible] made, must have no

From the army hospital—the shaky bubble fled—the mansion of the rich and humble abode of the poor—from the effluvium the sacred dead—from the mountain top, distant valleys and the—of islands of the ocean—from every rank and corner of the civilized world—is pouring in the evidence of the astonishing efficacy of DRAKE'S PLANTATION BITTERS. Thousands upon thousands of letters like the following may be seen at our office.

BRIDGEPORT, WIS., Sept. 28, 1863.

* * * I have been in the army hospitals fourteen months—spasmodic and nearly dead. At Alton, Ill., they gave me a bottle of Plantation Bitters. * * * Three bottles restored my speech and cured me. * * *

C. H. FLAUTE.

SOUTH WARSAW, OHIO, July 20, 1863.

* * * One young man, who had been sick and not out of the house for two years with Scrofula and Erysipelas, after paying the doctors over $100 without benefit, has been cured by ten bottles of your Bitters. * * *

EDWARD WOUNALL.

The following is from the Manager of the Union House School for the Children of Volunteers:

HAVERSTRAW MANSION, 57TH-ST.,
NEW-YORK, Aug. 3, 1863.

DR. DRAKE: Your wonderful Plantation Bitters have been given to some of our little children suffering from weakness and weak lungs with most happy effect. One little girl, in particular, with pains in the head, loss of appetite, and daily wasting consumption, on whom all medical skill had been exhausted, has been entirely restored. We commenced with but a teaspoonful of Bitters a day. Her appetite increased; strength and health followed.

* * *

Respectfully, MRS. O. M. DEVOE.

* * * I owe much to you, for I verily believe the Plantation Bitters have saved my life.

Rev. W. H. WAGGONER, Marion, N. Y.

* * * Then will send me two bottles more of thy Plantation Bitters. My wife has been greatly benefited by their use. Thy friend.

ABA CURRIN, Philadelphia, Penn.

* * * I have been a great sufferer from Dyspepsia, and had to abandon preaching. * * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me.

Rev. J. S. CATHORN, Rochester, N. Y.

* * * Send us twenty-four dozen more of your Plantation Bitters, the popularity of which are daily increasing with the guests of our house.

SYKES, CHADWICK & CO.,
Proprietors of Willard's Hotel, Washington, D. C.

* * * I have given the Plantation Bitters to hundreds of our disabled soldiers with the most astonishing effect.

G. W. D. ANDREWS,
Superintendent Soldiers' Home, Cincinnati, Ohio.

* * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me of liver complaint of which I was laid up prostrate and had to abandon my business.

H. R. KINGSLEY, Cuyahoga, Ohio.

* * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me of a derangement of the kidneys and urinary organs that had distressed me for years. It acts like a charm.

C. C. MOORE,
Agent for Colgate & Co., No. 384 Broadway.

&c., &c., &c., &c., &c., &c.

The Plantation Bitters make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhaustless nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya Bark, Wild Gentian, Quassiva, Roots, Herbs, &c., all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix Rum.

S. T.—1860.—X.

Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, constipation or the blues, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, &c., should try a bottle if they will not try them.

They are recommended by the highest medical authorities, and are warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure and harmless.

NOTICE.—Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters in bulk or by the gallon, is a swindler and imposter. We only put it up in our log-cabin bottles. Beware of bottles refilled with imitation Jamaica rum, for which several persons are already in prison. The genuine bottle has our United States Stamp over the cork, and signatures on steel plate side labels.

Sold by responsible dealers throughout the habitable globe.

Saturday, Oct. 10—P. M.

The heavy short sales of Gold in the Gold Room of GILPIN'S Exchange a few mornings ago, on the extravagant rumor of a Foreign Loan, fell due today, the options having only three days to run. The deliveries to be made were out of proportion to the supply of Gold on sale, and the consequence was a stiff market on the purchases for cash. Some of the short sellers borrowed the Gold, free of interest, until Monday, and in some instances paid a bonus of 1@1½ per cent. for the accommodation. The price of Gold at the Board Exchange at 10 in the Gold Room ranged 146@147 ¾ cent. The transfers to-day were only about half the usual amount, generally reported to be caused yesterday. The amount which went out by the steamers to-day, including drafts by the Express, is $[illegible], and the balance exported the day before yesterday.

The market worked easier for Money all the week, than yesterday, and most of the Brokers were accommodated before 3 o'clock with all they required.

The Stock Market is firmer and generally higher than on Friday, the Railways and the demand at the Second Board were especially animated. The price of Michigan Southern were very large, at 80 ¾ cent, as against 8[illegible]@86 at the First Board on Friday. There was a further rise on Cleveland and Pittsburgh, to 1[illegible] cent, and the New-York roads were 1@2 ¾ cent higher than in the forenoon. In Government, still further private sales of the coupons of 1881 were made at 110½, and of the registered at 108½ ¾ cent. The general market on the breakfast up of the Second Board was [illegible].

At 4 o'clock the following prices were made in the regular Public Board, Friday night, Michigan Southern fetched 1 ¾ cent, and Galena 2@2½ ¾.

The receipts into the Treasury for account of the Premium Loan amounted to $1,365,000. The Gold and Silver Certificates to $1,365,000. The Compound Interest Notes were taken up with receipts nearly by a million and a half of dollars.

The day's business at the office of the Assistant Treasurer, United States, New-York, was as follows: The Bank [illegible] balance, $[illegible]; payments, $[illegible]; balance, $[illegible].

THE WAR IN MISSOURI.

The Defeat of Shelby—Official Report of Gen. Brown.

HEADQUARTERS DIVISION FRONTIER,
MARSHALL, Mo., Oct. 12, 1863.

GENERAL: I have the honor to report that, after following the enemy through Cole County, Syracuse and Boonville, skirmishing with the rear of the division he was forced to make a stand at Moreili's Crossing of Saint Fork, a point eight miles southwest of Arrow Rock, and about the same distance from Marshall, and commenced a skirmishing fight at sunrise on the morning of the 10th, consisting of a mobile cavalry charge. We fought along so long as we could see, and lay down on our arms in the rain during the night.

At 3 o'clock this morning I detached Lieut.-Col. LAZEAR, with about one hundred men, with orders to move to the south, avoiding the route of the enemy, and intercept him, if possible, at Marshall, and bring on an engagement, while I followed him (the enemy) with the balance of my command. The result was as I had hoped. Lieut.-Col. LAZEAR drove in the outposts of the enemy, and an engagement commenced at 9 o'clock, and continued for two hours, when the enemy broke and fled, leaving the field in possession of those crossing the Saint Fork, on the bank of the river and along Muddy River for miles. They were very hard pressed and were thrown into great confusion. We pursued them a short distance, and then returned to the field, where we found our wounded men, and buried our dead. They were very hard pressed through the dense timber and brush which fringed a half fringed the borders of the creek. By marching a mile through over dense timber brush we drove them from their position, and being driven from Muddy River and pursued under Sanford to the southwestern portion Lamoni by our victorious troops, we found it was considered what happened to have gone to Grand River. They were in great confusion and left behind them a number of wounded men, and left behind them a number of wounded men, and left behind them a number of wounded men,

THE RUSSIAN TRAVELERS.

Their Presence at Niagara Falls.

From Our Own Correspondent.

WELLAND, Friday, Oct. 24, 1862.

The Grand Trunk train from Albany, bearing the Russian visitors for Niagara Falls, passed Rochester this morning. The gala contingent of four passenger cars, a lunch car and baggage car, and a tender for change of attendants, E. S. Kemp, who rode the Russians through at the rate of 40 miles an hour, reached town. The cortege left Niagara Falls at 3 P. M. Director Gardner, President of the Central Railroad, accompanied the train as far as Suspension Bridge, with several of the Directors, among whom are Edward Flora, R. H. Bissenthwaite, J. A. Roebling and Milton Peck, will go through. Adjt.-Gen. Sumner, who arrived before the excursion from Albany, left on the train at the Falls for the excursion from Albany. At all the stations on the route from Albany either men or women and children were assembled and greeted the imperials with waving handkerchiefs. Auburn, Weedsport, Port Byron, Lyons, Palmyra, etc., each turned out their bevy of beauties, who smiled their welcome upon the Grand Duke, to the great delight of the gallant officers. The train made only short stops, but there was an opportunity for speech-making, even if the Admiral had been so inclined, which he decidedly is not. The beautiful scenery of the Genesee Valley remarked first meed of praise from Russian lips, the earliest to acknowledgments through the combined glory and beauty of the Genesee Valley. The day is beautiful, the weather mild, and the waters of some Russian guests jubilant and merry. They for they express themselves delighted. When they reach Niagara, which none of them have seen, they expect to be astonished. Remote it be.

Gen. Walbridge and the London Times.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

As a private citizen, having no claim upon the public ear, except that which my neighbors and countrymen may willingly accord me on my persistent and outspoken conviction of the true policy to adopt in the crisis through which we are passing, may I ask the use of your columns while I denounce, in every particular, the false, malicious and unjustifiable assault upon my character by the London Times, as given in the telegraphic dispatches from St. John, N. B., to the morning Press of this City. The gravamen of this, it appears, is the recent expression of my opinions at the splendid entertainment given by that public-spirited citizen, Jno. E. Kane, of St. Louis, to the distinguished Russian Admiral, in honor of the Russian fleet, for the signal, kind, impartial and honorable course displayed by the Russian Emperor in this struggle. I refer back to the international struggle going on in America, between the constitutional Government of the United States and the wicked, treasonable attempt to effect the overthrow of this Government by the insurgent and secessionist States.

Here, perhaps, I might stop, yet it is but just that I should give my authorities, and I appeal to the key to this unjust assault. At the celebration of Washington's birthday, on the 22d of February, 1862, in the presence of a vast audience of white men, in the Southern portion of our country, I said, in substance, that the time was fast approaching when the whole country would be compelled to take immediate possession of South Carolina, becoming convinced that the rebellion could not be suppressed, unless the rebels in Mount Pleasant could obtain assistance from abroad; and whenever that time came, I was for something to come off that would obtain assistance for the rebels. I concluded upon the assurance of the English Government in recognizing the belligerent rights of our enemies, in which case, in the event of our success, we would have
